CLUBS

There are over 120 dodgeball clubs in the UK. The first club was set-up in the UK in 2007. Over 80 university dodgeball teams in the UK participate in our events annually.

POPULARITY

613,000 children from Yr 1-11 play dodgeball, making it the 4th most participated team sport amongst young people. (Sport England Active Lives - 2019).

DEMAND FOR DODGEBALL

33% of primary school children have stated they would like to play more dodgeball, which is higher than any other sport (Ofsted - 2018). This demand continues into high school and universities, which is where many sustained players first start playing.

- COMPETITIONS

The purpose of our university dodgeball offer is to put a platform in place that enables the sport to grow and develop within the sector. We understand that universities and their students will want different things from dodgeball and that this may change each academic year. We hope our offer enables more institutions to engage with dodgeball, whether that is to increase activity levels, to gain qualifications and experience or even to develop a team to compete in events.

PARTICIPATION

- GETTING STARTED

To get started with dodgeball at your university, you will need somebody or a group to take the lead and coordinate getting everything started.

This could be a staff member, student or a group consisting of more than one person. Many universities start dodgeball by setting up weekly participation sessions as part of a university-wide physical activity scheme, as it's a really inclusive, fun and social sport.
